“THE READ ALOUD 2020 NEEDS”: CHILDREN’S BOOK ABOUT HOPE DEBUTS TO ENCOURAGE OTHERS

Fort Worth, Texas [October 12, 2020]. Hope the Dog, a positive and energetic new children’s book, is now available for immediate sale. Written by Fort Worth local Allison Davis, Hope the Dog is an inspiring tale for readers of all ages about a dog, an adventure, and the power of having HOPE in all circumstances.

Hope is unlike the regular dogs. She’s special, quite quirky, like a teacher with paws. She runs in the rain and slurps down souffles. Hope even teaches her owner how to sit and to stay! But one day, the dog goes missing. Is Hope lost forever?

Advanced readers are calling Hope the Dog “the book 2020 needs,” suitable for both adults and children. “This true gem of a book” (advanced reader reviews) launches into a year marked by adversity and conflict, from a pandemic to political tensions. It is Davis’s wish that readers can learn from Hope the Dog and be compelled to spread the message of unfailing HOPE to those around them.

Author Allison Davis was inspired by her dog and a challenging season to craft a story that could uplift and inspire. Davis is a Texas Christian University (TCU) alumna with experience in both corporate merchandising and education. She currently teaches at a private school in Fort Worth, Texas. Illustrator Leah Rowe hails from the United Kingdom, where she spent many years as a graphic designer before pursuing illustration full-time.

Hope the Dog is available for purchase at www.hopethedog.com or on Amazon. Available soon at local retailers.
